I'd like to talk about managing my money...

Getting ready...

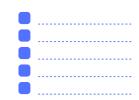

I have thought about what I like and what I don't like about how I use my money.

Is the person I'm speaking willing to help me? Will they keep my information private?

Do I have what I need to hear and see properly?

Have I made a list of money I have coming in? And the money going out?

During the conversation I will remember...

This is all about me.

I have been an adult for a long time. I am the expert on me.

I can stop the conversation at any time.

My next actions are...

I have said everything I wanted to say.

I have a list of all the actions I need to take.
And when I need to do it by.

I know who I need to speak to if I need any extra help with anything.

Do I feel better after the conversation?

All about me
